

THE BATTLE OF KULM 29th and 30 of August 1813

The French I Corps under Vandamme, is pursuing the retreating allied after the battle of Dresden. The Russian I (Guard) and III Corps stand at Kulm. Thinking that other French corps are also pursuing, Vandamme attacks the Russians, but other allied forces are rapidly converging towards him.

3 SPECIAL RULES FOR KULM

3.1 Game Length: First day: 10.00-21.00 hours (22 turns). Second day 7.00–19.00 hours (24 turns). The French are the first side in the first day and the Allied in the second day. Apply all OR14.5 optional rules for Multi-Day Battles.

3.2 Deployment. The first day Kulm is occupied by the French and Priesten and Straden by the Russians. The Russians are deployed firstly, anywhere in the area A1 to D2. French 1B/5/V and 2B/5/V units are deployed at hill in A3. Other forces are in march column formation on the main road.

For the deployment of second day follow the map, taking into account the results of the first day battle.

3.2 Reinforcements and Arrival times:

See the attached Arrival Table and apply the OR 13.8.2 rule for Varying Time Arrivals (Roll 1D10: two turns before the normal entering turn a '1' allows to enter; one turn before, '1-3'; the same turn, '1-6' and in later turns '1-8').

French: All units arrive in march column formation by A5 road

The Aussig detachment can be recalled by Vandamme and arrives the second day from 9.00h onwards in march column formation at B5/C5 (dice for)

Allied:

Russians: All units enter deployed by D1

Austrians: All units deployed at D1, D2 or D3

Prussian: All units in march column formation at A5 road in the order given in the Arrival table from 11.00h onwards

3.3 Options: The French have seven free rolls, and the allied six (in both days). The French have the initiative the first day and the Allied the second day.

3.4 Fictional Kulm

Kulm is a one-side scenario heavily weighted against the French. In order to give Vandamme a chance, the participation of Prussian units during the second day can be hindered: After the arrival of each Prussian Brigade (see the Arrival table) its commanding general must to pass a Command Control test in order to deploy and moving from the arrival entry point. After a successful test, the next unit in the queue can start to test for arrival in the following Control Phase, i.e. during the following turn, that is taken as being two-turns before the scheduled turn to apply the OR13.8.2 rule.

3.5 VICTORY CONDITIONS

First day: Start point D1, Priesten, Kulm, Straden, Karkwitz and the hills at B2 are worth 18/39 points for Russian/French.

Second day: Start points D1 y A5, Priesten, Kulm, Straden, Auschine, Arbesau, the hills at B2 and Karkwitz, are worth 18/63 points for Russian/French.

Optional: On the second day, there are no terrain objectives. From 13 hours forward, Vandamme must attempt to escape through D1 or A5 with the most of their forces.
